Rourned and Missed.

Ged said it was not good for man to be alone. None realize this more keenly than the aged—parted after long years of married companionship and experience of life's ills and blessings shared together. A touching incident is narrated of the death of "Blue Jeans" Williams, the Governor of Indiana recently deceased.

Since the death of his wife, several years ago, Gov. Williams' associates have noticed a great change in his manner, although not a word of complaining or repining has fallen from his lips. But it was evident that grief was wearing his life away.

At the old home a room was atways kept for his use, fitted up with a broad fireplace and the furniture which he had been accustomed to in early life.

At a window here, his wife al-ways sat to welcome him on his return home, and since her death he has not cared to return to the scene of his loss. He went occasionally, but it was always a trial. Recently his daughter missed him from his accustomed place, and after a long search he was found in the barn, his grief welling up in great sobs that shook his frame.

When his old disease brought its insidious forces to bear against him, they found opposed to them no longer the sturdy will and hardy constitution, but an indifferent, if not willing victim, longing for the wife with whom he had lived over half a century.

Drank. Some drink is fatal to the drinker. But the brute that finds out this fact too late is far more excusable than a human drunkard. A half dozen prospectors, says a California paper, camped one night recently in the Sierra Nevada, El Dorado county. The ground was covered with snow, and when about midnight a grizzly bear approached, the crunching of his feet aroused the whole camp. The bear trotted boldly up to within a few feet of the fire and seized the nearest thing that could be reached—a hag containing a few such articles as bread and sugar, and a demijohn of the hottest whisky manufactured on the Pacific coast. The prospectors fired several shots at the grizzly, which caused him to seize the bag in his teeth and scamper off. Relieved of the unwelcome visitor's presence, the party dropped off to sleep again, to be aroused about dawn by long and loud roars in a neighboring ravine. The men approached the ravine cantionsly and were delighted to see the grizzly uproariously drunk and rolling in the snow. The bear had broken the demijohn and lapped up the whisky with an appreciative tongue. His antics were very funny -- as good as a circus," one of the prospectors says—and they were kept up until long after sunrise. He tried hard to climb up the side of the ravine and made ferocious dash es at the men, but every time he rolled down. At last the spectators shot him and moved on.

Fut it to Proof. At a time when the community is flooded with so many unworthy devices and concoctions, is is refreshing to find one that is beneficial and pure. So conscious are the proprietors of Dr. Kinn's NEW DISPOVERY for Consumption, of the worth of their remedy, that they offer atl who desire a trial bottle free of charge. This certainly would be disastrous to them did not the remedy possess the remarkable curative qualities claimed. Dr. Kind's New Discovery for Consumption will positively cure Asthma, Bron-chitis, Stubborn Ceughs, Colds, Phthisic, Quinsy, Hoarseness, Croup, or any affec-tion of the throat and lungs. As you value your existence give this wonder-ful remedy a trial by calling on Hubbard & Swearingen, druggists, and obtaining a trial hottle free of cost, or a regular size bottle for $1.00.

> Ens. REPUBLICAN: I had concluded to drop the subject that called forth my first and second articles published recently in your paper, but in looking over the Herald of to-day I find the following. PARKE WHE AND POURD POOLISH

EDS. HERALD:-Taxpayer writing for the REPUBLICAN has expended a good deal of time, and wasted ink to prove that ductors should not be privileged characters. If he can demonstrate that the people in corporate capacity ought not to pay doctors, mechanics, engineers, scientific artisans, or men in any and every occupation, just what individuals every occupation, just want to a same, or employing them pay for the same, or likewise, he will reduce taxes to-day and increase them in the future. It is a penny among findish procedure. They wise and pound fisolish procedure. They are the tactics of a man who would legis late in favor of ignorance, a man who would employ a teacher for a dollar a day because his goodness demands no mor A truce to such nonsense.

ANOTHER TAXPAYER
Decatur, Ill., April 13, 1881.

"Taxpayer" of the Herald has very much enlarged the scope of the subject. We would not only have physicians paid large fees for aiding the ends of justice. but he virtually says that mechanics, engineers, scientific artisans and others in every occupation should not be put to loss or hardships in serving the public. I will so far agree with 'Another Taxpayer as to allow that with respect to mechanics engineers and the others named, his posl tion is mainly correct. With respect to physicians. I believe his position wholis and positively wrong, and for the follow teg reasons: By a common consent, the pablic have made many concessions and granted numerous privileges to physicians not accorded to others. With respect to our courts of justice, they are not called upon to ait as jurymen, either in our cir. | them. cuit county or magistrate's courts. If called into any of the courts either as common witnesses or as imperis, it is usual for them, after being beerh, to retire and tesume business, with the pader standing that an accommodating bailts will give them timely notice when their testimony will be wanted. If called into an adjoining county on a change of venue, it is quite common for some friend attorney to rise and explain to the judge that his physician friends are absent from Mayor Priest, accompanied by her little home to a great disadvantage, and if it would "please his honor" to hear their ley, arrived in the city last evening and testimony at once and let them return to their suffering patients, etc., etc. Thereupon the kind judge-sibeit he may think actor, arrived in Decatur this forencon the patients much better off without them-gives his consent, and they are soon off for home, while the poor one erson, who is now in the 52d year of his age, gave the REPUBLICAN a short call todollar and a quarter laborer must be kept day. In 1841, just forty years ago, be there the balance of the one or two weeks consumed in the trial, though it take paid Decatura visit in company with his every cent of his fees to pay his hotel ing theatrical troupe. Mr. Jefferson was bills. But this is all right with "Another Taxpayer," for the dollar and a quarter in member where or in what sort of a hall what this, day laborer gets for his services the company performed, but he recollects at home. While the laws of the land prohibit men in most all other callings from following remunerative employment on the Sabbath, this is generally their most profitable day. This one item gives them an advantage of at least 15 per cent, over the the great masses; and it can be safely asserted that not one in a hundred of them would exchange this advantage for church services. They are not expected to attend funerals, or to run the risk of "missing a call" by attending the prima ries or any other political gathering. They are never called on to sit up with the sick. only in a professional wav, and then, if they remain longer than the usual time allowed for examination and prescription, one to two dollars are often charged for every additional hour thus spear, while other watchers remain the balance of the pight for nothing. Many of them aim to escape all unprofitable practice. To such an extent is this desire carried out, that when called upon to attend a poor women in that most critical situation that never fails to engage the sympathies of all mothers and kind-hearted husbands, the ten dollar fee must be guaranteed before they will Dawkins, has been called from our midst to the Lodge on high. Herald "Taxpayer" thinks I would "leg islate in favor of agnorance." I can teil him I would, but not in the sense implied in the quotation. I would so legislate that unfortunate ignorance could not be hampered and circumvented by education, lead on by an arrogated superiority. I would so legislate that what occasionally takes place in benighted Central Af rica, shall not, in another form, be an every day affair in America. "What!" said one of Central Africa's sons to the great Livingston, "Shall I go hungry while my sister has children that she can sell and buy me bread?" I would so legislate that this African sestiment, in its modified form, shall no longer he allowed to go brazen-facest all over our land exclaiming: "What' shall I be prevented from amassing wealth when there is ignorance, superatition, credulity, muscle, blood, bone and sinew on every side; when effrontery is mistaken for solid worth, assumptions for truths, a smattering of learning for depth of thought, and when on every side large quantiles of are wool waiting to be pulled over the people's eyes?"

It was the occasion of a surprise party, given by her friends in honor of Mrs. Bachrach's birthday anniversary, and it was so nicely managed by "Max" and others, that she knew nothing of the gathering until she had returned home with her husband after witnessing the "Child of the State" performance. The curtains were down and the rooms were darkened as the "victim" opened the door, and as soon as she entered the gas was turned on by Col. D. J. Block, and Prof. Wilhelmy's orchestra with his company from Bloomington, and struck up a lively air. Mrs. B.'s astonishment may be better imagined than described. She hadn't a word to say, and surrendered unconditionally. The rooms were filled with a merry company of friends, and after Mrs. B had removed father, who was then managing a travelher wraps she was treated to another agreeable surprise, being the presentation of a costly silver tea set, from her parents, who reside at Baltimore, Md., and two handsome German silver spitby the husband; a handsome cabinet pho-
